What's this fact sheet about?

This fact sheet is about what we do in the Guardianship Division of the NSW Civil and Administrative Tribunal (NCAT).

NCAT protects the rights of people who can't make decisions on their own.

Rights are rules about how people should be treated fairly.

We find ways to fix problems that:

are fair

follow the law.

We follow the Guardianship Act (1987).

The Guardianship Act (1987) is the law that explains what decisions a guardian can make.

A guardian is someone we choose to make decisions about your life when you can't make decisions on your own.

The Guardianship Act (1987) is the law that explains what decisions a financial manager can make.

A financial manager is someone who makes decisions about your money if you can't make decisions on your own.

We must follow the guiding principles in the Guardianship Act 1987.

Guiding principles are important rules we must follow.

When we make decisions about you, we must think about your wellbeing.

When we make decisions about you, we must ask what you think about having a:

- guardian
- financial manager.

We must think about what decisions you can make about your:

life

home

health

• money.

We must think about how you can:

• live your life how you want to live it

• take part in the community

• be part of your culture.

Your culture is:

- your way of life
- how you think or act because of how you grew up.

Guardianship

Sometimes we choose someone to be your guardian.

We call it a guardianship order.

Guardianship orders don't last forever.

Your guardian might make decisions about where you live

what services you need and use

• what medical or dental treatment you need.

We can make only a guardianship order if you:

• are 16 years or older

 have a disability that affects how you make decisions.

Your guardian might be a:

family member

friend

• Public Guardian.

We choose the Public Guardian if your guardian can't be your:

family member

• friend.

When we decide who your guardian should be, we might choose:

• one person

• more than one person.

We can't make a guardianship order if we think you can make decisions on your own.

Reviewing your guardianship order

When a guardianship order ends, we must review it.

When we review a guardianship order, we check to see what:

- works well
- needs to be better.

You can also ask us to review your guardianship order.

After we review a guardianship order, we might:

make another guardianship order

change parts of the guardianship order

• end the guardianship order.

Anyone can ask for a review if they're worried about someone who has a guardianship order.

Financial management

Sometimes we choose a financial manager for you.

We call this a financial management order.

Most financial management orders last for a long time.

We will make a financial management order if:

• you have assets in New South Wales

you can't look after your assets on your own

we think it will be better for you.

Your assets are things you own that have value, such as:

- a car
- a house
- money you have saved.

Your financial manager might be a:

family member

friend

NSW Trustee and Guardian.

We choose the NSW Trustee and Guardian if your financial manager can't be your:

- family member
- friend.

When we choose your financial manager, we might choose:

one person

• more than one person.

We can't make a financial management order if we think you can make decisions on your own.

Reviewing your financial management order

Sometimes we might review a financial management order.

You can ask us to review your financial management order.

When we review a financial management order, we check to see what:

- works well
- needs to be better.

We will end a financial management order if:

 you can make decisions about your assets on your own

• it will be better for you.

Anyone can ask for a review if they're worried about someone who has a financial management order.
